

THE BULLETIN

HOSPITALITY

Christians are taught in scripture to practice hospitality. The Greek term means “one who loves strangers.” This word occurs three times in the New Testament. The first is in I Timothy 3:2 where “given to hospitality” is a qualification for an elder (bishop). The second is in Titus 1:8 where it again is a for an elder. The third occurrence is in I Peter 4:9 where it applies to all Christians: “use hospitality, one to another, without murmuring.” The same thought is expressed in Hebrews 13:2: “Forget not to show love unto strangers: for there-by some have entertained angels unawares.”

Although the idea of hospitality applies primarily to strangers, we are also commanded to use hospitality “one to another,” that is, fellow Christians whom we may know quite well. How is it expressed? It can be expressed in many ways. We can invite people into our homes for meals – have you ever done this? We can take people out to restaurants for meals – have you ever done this? We can share a meal with visitors at the annex – have you ever done this?

But even without sharing a meal, we can have a welcoming attitude toward strangers. Some congregations are so ingrown that members just look right through visitors without recognizing or greeting them. Abraham’s hospitality resulted in “entertaining angels unawares.” We could also be so fortunate.

THANKS

A BIG THANK YOU to all who helped at Work Day, yesterday.

We want to thank everyone for their encouragement and prayers throughout this last year as we have transitioned up here from Pennsylvania and have searched for jobs and a home and dealt with health issues. Your support has meant so much to us. And a very special thank you, too, to Steven, Brian, Margery, Nicole, Terry, Mark, and Jason who helped move us into our new home last weekend. We can't thank you enough!

GIVEN TO HOSPITALITY

In all the writing about problems in the church it seems one problem has been ignored.....the problem of a lack of hospitality. This problem causes others, too.

The Holy Spirit announced through the apostle Paul in Rom 1:16 'that the Gospel is the power of God unto salvation to all who believe it.' He developed this theme in majestic form through eleven chapters. In view of all the marvels of God's scheme to redemption as stated in those eleven chapters, Paul begged Christians beginning in chapter 12 to conduct themselves in a manner becoming of those who had received the great salvation he so elaborately expounded on in the first 11 chapters. Among the many things Paul besought the Roman Christians to do, he told them to be given to hospitality (Rom. 12:13). Paul also stressed hospitality in giving the qualifications of elders when he wrote that a bishop (elder) must be given to hospitality (I Tim. 3:2). HOSPITALITY in Romans 12:13 and I Timothy 3:2 is a translation of a Greek word that means: 'hospitable, generous to guests; love to strangers'. Not just elders are to be given to hospitality, but they should set a good example of being hospitable. All Christians are commanded to be given to hospitality (Rom. 12:13).

Too Few Practice It

Usually, hospitality is practiced by entirely too few in a congregation. Often a new family moves into a city and visits. Such a family should never visit a congregation of the Lord's people without receiving at least a few invitations like: 'Come go home with us for lunch' these invitations should be genuine! Such genuine and generous hospitality will do great things for the church. Such hospitality is a symptom of deep spiritual quality. It is a sign of the love of souls and interest in people. One of the reasons some churches are not growing is due to a lack of interest in people.

Who Will Have the Preacher?

Many years ago a preacher preached for a church on a Sunday morning and evening service far from his home. After the morning service the preacher was not asked to go home with anyone. One couple did tell him they would pick up at a certain place that afternoon for a tour of the area. The preacher went to a restaurant and ate before the couple picked him up. Being a young preacher, he could have been somewhat discouraged by this lack of hospitality but he kept on preaching and enjoyed much hospitality as a preacher for about thirty years since then. This is a true story; I am that preacher. Do not be afraid to have a preacher of the Gospel in your home for a meal. He does not have to be entertained. He is human, like you. Treat him as you would anyone else. It is my observation that a certain few in a congregation usually ask a visiting preacher for dinner, but for the sake of the church, more of the members should practice such hospitality.

Visiting With Each Other

Families in a congregation should visit each other more. There seems to be very little such hospitality practiced in most congregations. Christian families should invite non-Christian families into their homes and use such opportunities to save souls. The average Christian family has become so involved in work, school, sports, electronics and 'other things' that it finds little time to practice hospitality. Hospitality unites people and builds kindness, love and sympathy among God's people.

Do Not Have To Be 'Well Fixed'

Truly some are not as well fixed as others for having guests. But it is easy to find excuses for not doing what God wants us to do. You do not have to have everything in your home 'just right' in order to be hospitable. Hospitality is not excessively costly and sumptuous banquets, but simple and warm fellowship. It is the spirit and heart that hospitality generates that is important. Christian maturity causes a family not to be overly worried about not having an abundance of things, but it means inviting others to share what they do have and enjoying the fellowship.

Without Grudges

'Use hospitality one to another without grudging' (I Peter 4:9). Hospitality should be without complaining. It costs, but it pays more than it costs. 'It is more blessed to give than to receive.' Where did a Christian get the idea that serving God is without financial cost? Hospitality is all the medicine some need to relieve tension. Hospitality practiced by many members can give a congregation new life! Life in this work is short. Material things are of little value unless we use them in doing God's will.

When Have You?

When have you invited someone home with you? When have you invited those with whom you were not well acquainted?

"This is my comfort in my affliction, that your promise gives me life."
Psalms 119:50 ESV.

Hold On...

One of the many things that we can expect in life is that there will be affliction. Nothing is going to be perfectly easy and go off with no problems. Especially as Christians in a world that is quickly forgetting what it means to be Christian we face more afflictions every day.

Afflictions can come in many forms. They can be struggles with people who don't believe, they can be illnesses, money issues, family issues, and maybe even God issues. The point is that they come in many shapes and sizes. Even when these things come at us on a daily basis, we need to hold onto a promise that we are given. Life.

No matter what is thrown our way, we can hold onto the promise of life. Jesus gave His life so that we could have life. When things get tough we know that we can go to our father because we have this life and that life is nothing that our afflictions or this world can take. Hold onto the promise of life.
